

Maintenance choices also depend on consequences, feasible actions and service constraints.
Proxy evidence alone does not establish physical condition or calibrated event probabilities.